MOONSHINE RAID.

One Man Killed and Two Wounded. Near Pickett's Chapel, Adair County.

ABOUT TWENTY-FIVE SHOTS FIRED.

Last Thursday morning Sheriff Geo. Coffey, Deputy Sheriffs S. F. Coffey and Frank Winfrey, and deputy Jailer Elmer Miller, left here for the Pickett Chapel neighborhood, having been notified that a still was in operation in that locality.

When they reached the place where the still was supposed to be located, they dismounted and hitched their horses, and commenced a careful survey of the premises. In a short time they discovered the still and three men standing about it, and one man was off to himself, on a hill. He was believed to be the lookout. The officers said to the three men, "boys, we have you covered, give up and you shall not be hurt." Just at this time a shot came, it is believed from the man on the hill, and another shot from a different direction. The officers believing that they were in eminent danger, opened fire and perhaps twenty-five shots were fired. When the smoke had cleared up, it was discovered that one man, said to be named Van Arsdale, a son-in-law of Crit Pickett, was found dead, Teddy Morrison shot in the leg and it is supposed that it was broken, and it is also reported that a boy named Pickett was shot and badly wounded. After cutting the still and worm to pieces, and emptying nine hundred gallons of beer, the officers started on their return to Columbia, and upon reaching here they surrendered to County Judge C. G. Jeffries.

The trial was called Friday afternoon and continued until Saturday, April 8.

Oil the Streets.

The municipal board of this town could not make a better investment than to lay in oil enough to oil the streets in town that are mostly traveled. The oil should be purchased now and put upon the streets. From the Presbyterian church to the public square it is almost impossible to live through the summer months on account of the dust. Besides no family can keep the interior of its building clean. Oiling should not only be done to protect property, but to preserve health. All towns in the State the size of Columbia are oiling the streets, and the necessity for this protection should not longer be delayed here. It would be a good investment. Oil the streets and do it now.

A New Bank

All arrangements have been made for starting a bank at Creelsboro, Russell County. Mr. Robert Ingram, of Russell Springs, an experienced banker, has been elected cashier, and the business will open in a few days. Creelsboro is located in the wealthiest part of Russell County, surrounded by fine Cumberland river farms, and there is not a doubt but the institution will do a large business. A more competent cashier could not have been selected than Mr. Ingram, and the stockholders are the influential men of that section of Russell County.

THE MUSICAL RECITAL.

Glenn Ellison and Miss Alta Hill Delight All Columbia.

One of the most unique and thoroughly pleasing recitals ever given in Columbia was presented on Wednesday, March 29 at the High School Gymnasium by Mr. Glenn Ellison and Miss Alta Hill. The recital was an artistic success in every respect, and Mr. Herbert Taylor is to be congratulated for securing these capable and charming artists for an appearance here.

When Mr. Ellison appeared on the stage and stated that he would sing in unison with his Re-created voice and that the audience would not be able to tell the difference between Re-created and living voice, many persons were skeptical. Attempt to match that glorious voice with a device of mere wood and metal. Impossible! The skeptics were soon convinced, however, for, in Mr. Ellison's initial number on the program, his lips ceased to move, but his song went on. Slowly it dawned on the mystified audience that Mr. Ellison was no longer singing, though his voice came forth as clear and sweet as before. Again, he sang, but the audience only knew it was the living Ellison by the motion of his lips. It seemed as if there were two artists on the stage—two singers, but only one voice. The tones emanating from the New Edison were identical with those of the living artist, and it was impossible to detect any difference. The instrument produced not an echo or copy, but the real thing, Ellison's voice, untainted by any mechanical transformation, unspoiled by any metallic ring.

After the applause which followed this "miracle" exhibition, Miss Alta Hill shared the stage with her fellow musician, the New Edison. She played in unison with the Re-Creation of her art. Only by watching her could one know when the living artist was being heard alone and when the music came in double measure. The Re-Creation was absolutely identical with the original in every particular.

Further numbers in which Mr. Ellison and Miss Hill performed with themselves impressed the conviction of one's inability to distinguish between the Re-Created art and its original.

"Untangling Tony."

The above is the title of a play, given by members of the Senior class, Columbia High School, last Friday evening. The Gym was well-filled and many who took a walk to the hill were well paid for the journey. The actors had mastered their parts, and the whole play was given in a most entertaining manner. Miss Mary Lucy Lowe trained the performers and to her much credit is due for the successful rendition. A phonograph, tendered by Mr. Herbert Taylor, furnished the music.

The following had parts on the program: Misses Mary Sinclair, Pauline Allen, Ruth Miller, Virginia Smith, Mary Atkinson, Carrie Grissom; Messrs. Fred Jackson, Earl Blair and Frank Callison.

Remove to Liberty.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Davidson, who have been residents of Columbia for a number of years, the former having been reared in this community, left last Friday for Liberty where they will reside in the future. Mrs. Davidson was reared near Liberty and her father is still living on his farm and is quite an aged man. It was on his account that this removal is made. Mr. and Mrs. Davidson leave Columbia with the best wishes of the entire town, and upon their visits here they will be gladly received. Mr. Davidson has good business qualifications, and we predict he will have no trouble in finding clerical work at Liberty. He has had considerable experience in the county and circuit clerk's offices, and is now a United States Commissioner.

Paul Blair Married.

News has reached here that Mr. Paul Blair, a young man of this county, well-known in Columbia, where he was educated, was married Monday of last week, in Akron, Ohio, to Miss Billie Catron, of Danville. The bride is a daughter of former State Senator, John Catron, who lived at Albany when elected, but for some time has been a resident of Danville. The bride has been holding a position at Akron for some months, and it was in that city she met Mr. Blair. The couple will continue to reside at Akron, but will probably visit Columbia at an early day. Upon reaching this place the glad hand will be handed the newly weds by all of the groom's former friends and schoolmates.

Notice.

Dr. H. W. Depp will be out of town Apr. 10, 11 and 12, attending the State Dental Society.

Old Spanish Coin.

[Harrodsburg Herald.]

Mr. Averill James, of Lincoln county formerly of Mercer, called at the Herald office Monday. He had with him an ancient Spanish coin found by his son, Andrew James, in the old burying ground of the slaves of Governor Shelby. The silver piece is stamped 1782. On one side is a head with the lettering "Carolus III. Del Gratia." On the other side is the coat of arms and "Hispan et Ind Rex R. F. E." The coin is much worn with its almost a century and a half of handling, and the above is as near as it can be deciphered.

Mr. M. Cravens has in his possession a Spanish coin with the same lettering as the one described above, except the date. It was coined in 1776, six years before the date of the Harrodsburg Coin.

Last Thursday afternoon Olle Johnson, who is a student in Lindsey-Wilson, was enroute home, horseback. Near the gate entering Mr. W. A. Garnett's farm, his horse became scared and Olle was dashed to the ground. One of his legs was broken, and it will require several weeks for it to knit together.

Mr. Lopp Pendleton Dead.

Before our last issue we heard of the sudden death of Mr. Pendleton, wrote an article, and afterward we were told that it might be a mistake, and we did not make the announcement. Since that time the report of the death has been confirmed. Mr. Pendleton was quite an aged man, who lived between East Fork and Sulphur Well, Metcalfe county. He had left his home and was found on the public road, speechless and died in an hour or two after being found. He was a fine old gentleman, in easy circumstances, and his going away was a shock to the neighborhood. He was the father of Mr. Fount Pendleton, the well-known stockdealer, of Greensburg.

Another Still Brought In.

Last Tuesday night Sheriff George Coffey found a twenty-five gallon copper still in the Milltown country, about one mile from where the one brought in, last week, was located. He also got the worm. The still was not in operation. Mr. Coffey says that he does not know who owns it. It is now in charge of the jailer of the county. Parties interested were evidently close about, as Mr. Coffey states that he was shot at twice.

Fell Dead.

A message from Greensburg, received late Friday afternoon, stated that Mrs. Curt Stephens had suddenly died in that city. The husband of the deceased is a son of Mr. C. C. Stephens, this place. This death was a shock to the residents of Greensburg, as Mrs. Stephens was a very estimable woman. The interment was Saturday afternoon.

He further said that if a freeze don't come within the next week or two, there will be fruit for every body in Adair county.

CHAPTER V.—The wedding takes place and the couple set out for Shelby's ranch. With them is the "Kid," Macklin, whom Shelby has hired as a helper on the ranch. On the way the girl tells her husband her name is Olga Carlyn, and also tells him something of the peculiar circumstances of her life.

CHAPTER VI.—Leaving his wife in the house, Shelby goes to care for the horses. Returning, he is struck from behind by an unknown assailant. Hours later he recovers consciousness, to find that his wife and the "Kid" have disappeared. He starts in pursuit.

CHAPTER VII.—Shelby overhears a conversation between two outlaws that throws some light on his wife's history. He learns she is an heiress and that her abduction has been planned. He also learns that she has been taken to "Wolves' Hole," a haunt of bandits and "bad" Indians. The whereabouts of the place is unknown to Shelby, though its reputation as a resort of criminals is widespread.

CHAPTER VIII.—Shelby lays plans to rescue his wife. He is discovered by "Indian Joe" Laud, the leader of the outlaws, and forced to accompany him into the stronghold. There Shelby makes friends with a Mexican girl, Pancha, who is betrothed to Macklin and intensely jealous.

CHAPTER IX.—Imprisoned by Laud, Shelby escapes with Pancha, seeking his wife's prison. He discovers it, an old log cabin, and finds Olga. Their reunion is interrupted by the arrival of Macklin.

CHAPTER X.—After a night's rest Shelby leaves his shelter, seeking his wife's prison. He discovers it, an old log cabin, and finds Olga. Their reunion is interrupted by the arrival of Macklin.

CHAPTER XI.

A Shot in the Dark.

She stood clutching him tightly, both staring in startled fear out through the open door into the dim light of the front room. The whole situation flashed through Shelby's mind—if Macklin was alone he could handle him; yet there was danger that the man might shoot, and the report be overheard by others. Then, again, he might not be alone. It was better to make sure first, and then act. But how? A possibility occurred to him—it was dark within that second room; he could slip back into the corner, and remain concealed; perhaps the fellow would talk, would reveal his plans; at least, once at his ease, he could be made the victim of surprise. But would Olga play the part necessary? "Can you act?" he whispered hastily. "We must fool that fellow."

"How do you mean? What am I to do?"

"Make him talk. Let him think you are all right; above all keep him from suspecting that I am either here, or even alive."

"But how can I?" breathlessly. "With the door unbarred, and those dead men? He will know something has gone wrong."

"Tell him they fought and killed each other, but that first they unbarred the door. You found them there, and dragged the bodies under the bench. You dared not go away; you were afraid—make up some story. Here he is now!"

He left her frightened and dismayed by this sudden emergency, and sprang back into the darkest corner, crouching against the log wall. If she would only induce Macklin to reveal his plans, gain his confidence. He could see her there in the dim light bending forward and listening, a slender girlish figure. Then the outer door crashed open, letting in a flood of light from without, and a step sounded heavily on the floor. The young woman straightened up, the clear profile of her face revealed. Somehow Shelby knew she had braced herself for the contest. Macklin must have stopped just within the door, staring about him in uncertainty.

"What the h—l is up, here?" he burst forth angrily, confused by the gloom. "Sam, where are you anyway?"

"Who is Sam?" she asked quietly, and taking a step forward. "Is that the name of the Indian you left on guard?"

He gazed at her open-mouthed, for the moment too astonished to even find speech.

"What?" he stammered finally. "Why, what are you doing out here? Who opened that door? Where is the d—d red snake, anyway?"

"I do not know very much more than you do," she replied quietly. "There was a fight out here some time during the night, and the bar across the door was knocked down."

"A fight! Who were they?"

"A white man, and the guard. They were both killed."

"Both—both killed?" he seemed unable to grasp the fact. "Who was the white man?"

"I do not know."

"And you did not even run away? Did not try to escape?"

"Where could I go?" she asked. "What was there for me to do but wait for you to return?"

"Well, if this don't beat h—l!" he exclaimed. "Why I thought you was afraid of me. You ain't, hey?"

"No; I—I don't think I am. You were not rough with me, and—and you said you would have something interesting to tell me when you got back."

Macklin laughed, evidently relieved. She had spoken as a child might whose curiosity had been aroused.

"Oh, I see, my girl; you've been thinking this over, have you, and decided I might not be quite so bad after all. I thought maybe you'd get over that tantrum after awhile, fer shucks! I knew that feller Shelby was nothin' to you. You just married him ter git away from Ponca—didn't you?"

"Yes," she admitted, "that was about all."

"So, now he's dead; he don't cut no ice anymore."

"But are you sure he's dead?"

"Sure?" sneeringly. "I don't know how I could be no surer. I turned the cuss over an' he was cold then. You don't need worry none about that. Wait a minute till I see who the guy was what tried to break in here."

Shelby could hear Macklin cross the room, and jerk the blanket from off the bodies. The fellow gave utterance to an oath of astonishment at the sight revealed.

"My God! Did you ever see anything like that? Locked together like two stags. H—l! Sam was shot, but he got the white guy even after he was dead. D—n me, if it ain't Hank Slagin! Now, what does that mean? I reckon Hanley sent the galoot in here. That comes from spillin' things when yer drunk. Say, you an' I have got to get out of here. I'll tell you about it as quick as I can. It's plain enough Hanley's got his eyes on you, an' will double-cross me if he once gets a chance."

"What is it you mean? I do not understand."

"Naturally yer don't, seein' I ain't told yer nothin'. But now that I know yer ain't pining away over that feller Shelby, I reckon the sensible thing fer me to do is ter talk straight. There's goin' ter be h—l to pay in this valley before long, and the sooner we get out o' here the better. I run across a soldier 'bout half way ter Gerlasche, an' he give me a pointer that made me wheel about, an' ride back."

"The Indian outbreak?"

"Sure; the troops got in, an' rounded most of the Sioux up. They had a fight at Wounded Knee, over yonder, an' licked h—l out of the reds. Some of 'em got away though, an' come trailin' west—mostly young ones. I reckon—an' now they're sendin' cavalry out ter ride 'em down. That's what he was after, a bunch to come scoutin' in through here."

"Here? Wolves' hole?"

"Mor'n likely; he didn't say nothin' bout that. But they're mighty liable ter call. I'm fer gittin' out, while the goin's good. That's what I come back for—to get you, and skip."

"To—to get me?"

"Of course. I'll tell yer about it now, an' you'll go all right. I reckon you never thought I run off with you 'cause I loved you?"

"No—you—you loved me?"

"That's the way of it. I saw you long before that funeral down to Ponca; but this guy Shelby horned in 'fore I was ready to act. You didn't care nothin' for him. So I says to myself, then, I'll have her; I'll take her whether she wants me or not. Long as she don't love him, I'll make her love me—see? Course I didn't aim to do no killing; that was just an accident like, an' I didn't do it nohow. It was Sam here who got gay, and beamed Shelby."

"But what would you do with me, if—if he had been alive?"

"There ain't no use discussin' that, fer he ain't alive. It's what I want ter do now that counts. Maybe I had a plan then, an' maybe I didn't. But now I got it all planned up proper. I'm a goin' ter marry you. An that goes whether yer're willin' or not. I ain't even askin' you."

The expression of her face must have brought the fellow a realization that perhaps he was going altogether too fast, for he broke in with an explanation.

"See here now, don't get buffy. I ain't no Western rough-neck for you to be ashamed of. I belong down East in ol' Virginia, an' we got money to burn. That's straight goods. My real name ain't Macklin at all; it's Churchill. I mean business an' just as soon as Indian Joe gets down here with some horses, we're a goin' ter start."

"For where?" her voice trembling in spite of every effort at self-control.

"To Gerlasche first; there's a preacher there, an' then on to God's country just as fast as the train will take us. That's my program, an' let me tell you, I'll be d—n glad ter git away from Injuns, Mexs, an' the rest o' this rotten outfit. No, you wait; that will be Indian Joe comin' now."

The door between the two rooms had closed partially, yielding doubtless to some faint draught of air, so that Shelby ventured to survey the scene through the narrow crack near the hinges. Matters were becoming so complicated he was at his wits end. He had delayed too long, and, perhaps, it had been a mistake to advise the girl to thus appear friendly to this brute. Now, instead of being confronted by the Kid alone, he must also face Laud, if he would prevent her being carried away the second time. The situation had become desperate.

He could see the girl standing pressed close to the wall, the light from the broken window on her face, her eyes anxiously watchful of the movements of Macklin, who had turned and was fronting the outer door, one hand resting in readiness on the butt of his "45." Then that opening was shadowed, and the bulky figure of the squaw-man suddenly appeared. His first utterance was full of ill-humor.

"Well, I got your message, and am he cut them bars at the window, an' wiggled through."

"And he hasn't been caught?"

"Ain't seen hide ner hair o' him. Some guy helped him outside—there was prints of two kinds of boots plain enough under the window; but after that they might just as well have gone up in the air."

"Two o' 'em. The other couldn't have been Hanley, or Slagin, could it?"

"How the h—l do I know? I never caught sight o' nethin' but the print of that boot. I scouted up the creek; then that first bunch o' Indians come trailin' in, an' I had no time to think about anything since, only gettin' my cattle out o' here."

"But you'll go with us now?"

"For a ways, anyhow; I reckon there ain't nothin' else to do; them soldiers is bound to get here."

"And the sooner we're off the better. You ready?"

He wheeled and confronted the shrinking, frightened girl, who made no reply.

"Well, by God! you better be. Get the horses, Joe; I'll fetch her along, all right."

Shelby straightened up. In spite of the odds, he must act now, or never. Yet, before he could take a step forward, a single shot rang out sharply. He saw Macklin fling up his arms, and reel backward, his body striking the half-open door, before it crashed to the floor, and lay motionless.

The impact of Macklin's body had flung the door wide open, leaving Shelby fully exposed to view. For an instant, however, the startled and bewildered Laud failed to note his revelation against the darkness of that interior. He had leaped back instantly to the protection of the wall, and, gun in hand, crouched there with eyes fixed on the broken window opposite. Shelby was swift to take advantage of his surprise. Wherever the shot had come from, whoever had fired it, his concealment was no longer possible. There must be no hesitancy, no delay. He stepped across the motionless body, with weapon flung grimly forward.

"Hands up, Joe! Put them up first before you turn around. Stop that! Don't try any tricks on me. Now stand there—Olga."

"Yes."

"Take that gun out of his hand; there is another in his belt; get that also. That's right; now come over here; you understand firearms."

"Yes, of course" wonderingly, "I know how to shoot."

"I imagined so; Calkins would have taught you. Keep this fellow covered, and let him have it if he makes any effort to break away. Watch him closely, while I rip up that blanket, and tie him up."

He left her with the gun steadily pointed at Laud's head, the fellow cursing, with hands up, his angry eyes following every movement. He was desperate, maddened by sudden helplessness, with the sneaking ferocity of a wolf, yet was temporarily held motionless by the deadly peril. Shelby stripped the ragged blanket from off the dead bodies under the bench, and began hastily to rip it apart. The black, bloated face of Slagin stared upward, and Indian Joe saw it for the first time, a sudden spasm of terror causing him to burst forth:

"My God! That's Hank Slagin!"

"Sure it is; he got his, an' you'll get yours if you drop those hands, you cur. Turn around now, and stop."

MY DREAM.

Composed by Mrs. Mary Smythe Biggs when a school girl. It is based on a true dream of hers, when a child of about eight years:

I had a dream in early childhood. Which made an impress on my mind, That lingers with me till this day;

I sometimes mount on fancies pinions And soar along the past ten years. Then stand again in sunny dreamland And feel again those hopes and fears

I dreamed I stood beside an ocean, Of rolling, tossing, foaming waters; And with me stood my youthful play-mates

Together with ten thousand strangers, I saw them leave me one by one And sink beneath the rolling billows. So willingly they sank beneath

The waves with one I did not know. I gazed upon the darkening waters Till they rushed into eternity;

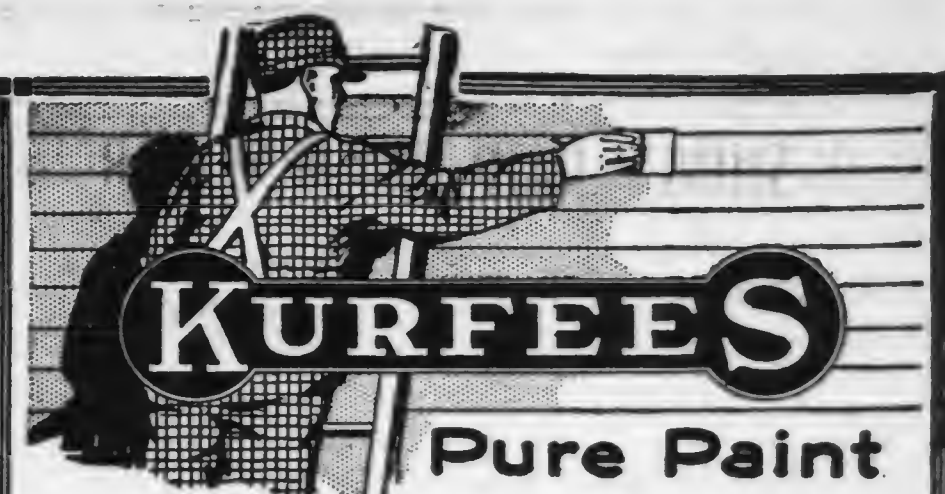

I stood enraptured and bewildered, I wondered what this all could mean. When suddenly my eyes were lifted And lo! beyond this raging sea

I saw a shore of glistening sand A land of light and purity. I saw the friends who just had left me

Arrayed in robes of purest white; A gorgeous mansion rose before me Its stately spires far out of sight. And just below this "Golden Temple" A pearly gate was left ajar.

And through it now my friends were passing To join the singing angels there. The wondrous scenes that met my vision

No mortal eye hath ever seen,

YOU can paint your home for less with Kurfees. The colors will retain their brilliancy and its protecting quality will wear longer.

It's the amount of lead in any paint that determines the square feet of surface it will cover and protect. It's the quality of lead that determines its durability. Kurfees Paint contains more pure lead per gallon.

Let us show you how little it takes to paint your home right.

Granitoid Floor Paint Put it on today—walk on it tomorrow. You can apply it. Eight beautiful colors.

Kurfees makes a Paint for every Purpose—We have them

The sounds that reached my listening ear

No mortal ear can ever hear, On this side all was pain and sadness; On that side all was joy and gladness;

On this side all was dark as night, On that side everything was bright. And still I stood beside that ocean

And knew not where to turn my course When low and meek a voice whispered "Come child I'll guide you safe across,"

I turned and saw the stranger then Who'd plunged the others 'neath the sea. And now I knew 'twas Christ himself. And they were in eternity.

"Come" said the low and pleading voice "Just sink beneath the waves with me

And soon we'll reach the other shore And you with friends united be." Imagine, friends, the fearful horror

Of such a voyage on such a sea! Just at the thought a scream of terror, Burst from my lips, in just one plea:

"Go away! Go away! O' God," I cried "We can not reach the other side, I will not risk my life with thee

To sink beneath that rolling sea" "Dear child" he said, "can not you trust

Your loving Savior's own strong arm Just lean upon my breast he said And I will land you free from harm."

"I can not go, I will not go O, God! I pray don't mock me so: We can not reach the other shore, But sink far down to rise no more"

Dear mortal friends my prayer for thee Is that it ne'er may be your fate To receive a look like Christ gave me

When he turned and said, "Almost too late."

With his pierced hands stretched out to me His pleading eyes gazed into mine That look I know I'll ne'er forget

Should my life be spared to the end of time Where words had failed his looks o'er-came And falling on my knees before him "Yes Lord" I cried, "Thy will be done"

I'll follow thee wherever thou leadest. "Come follow then" he gently said And clasping now my trembling hand

He calmly walked into the sea But as the waves closed o'er my head Those waves that still raged fearfully

I screamed and sat straight up in bed 'Twas but a dream. And yet kind friends

A dream I never can forget. The United States will insist on priority of the payment by Germany of its army of occupation on the Rhine or else its troops will be withdrawn immediately.

When a great politician begins associating with the small fry we know he is going to run again.

A Tribute.

Hon. J. K. Mitchel passed away at his home in Osborne, Kansas, March, 2, 1922. Born near Three Springs, Hart Co. Ky. June 17, 1848. On the death of his father in 1870 his uncle J. A. Mitchell, Sr. took him and cared for him as his own. He was a student at the M. and F., while Prof. Stewart was principal there. After this schooling he traveled over many counties of the state for the Bible Society. Later he took a course in Wabash College, Ind. but overtaxed his strength so that his mind gave down, and he was compelled to rest.

About the year 79 or 80 he and his cousin Z. T. Waldron, removed to Kansas, and at Osborne, established a law firm which flourished until the grasshopper plague came and so nearly ruined that great state. He again showed his perseverance by holding on until prosperity returned; and at his death was enabled to leave his family in comfort.

Presbyterian in faith, Progressive in policy, particular in business, and Practice extensive, we may say his moral horizon was bound by these virtues.

He was a charter member of the First Presbyterian Church, where he served as an elder for many years, and was one of the commissioners to the General assembly at Chicago. "Truly a great and good man has fallen in Israel."

He was married to Miss Francis Brown of Natoma, Kansas, where a beautiful church stands in memory of this fine English family, and is survived by his wife, two daughters' Muriel, a teacher at Eureka and Mrs. Majory M. Bradley of Osborne, two children having preceded him in infancy. One brother, M. L. Mitchel, resides near Columbia, Ky. and two brothers and a sister live in the west.

The sympathy of many friends is extended to the family in their sorrow,

J. A. Mitchel.

Roads and Politics.

From twenty years ago when Representative Bosworth, an ardent Republican, and the editor of the News began the crusade for better roads in Kentucky, up to the meeting of this Legislature there has never been any politics in road building in Kentucky.

In all the Good Roads Conventions and in all the work of the Kentucky Good roads Association there was no thought of politics and other Democrats and Republicans worked with the editor of The News and Hon. Joseph Bosworth until State Aid to roads were secured.

It is true that Gov. Morrow made a blunder when he did not appoint two outstanding Democrats on the Road Commission who would have had as much to say about the contracts and the management of the Road Department as Hon. Green Garrett, but he did at least appoint two men who were, according to their records, Democrats.

It is true that the present road law should not contain a provision granting the right to the State Highway Engineer to let road contracts. This right belongs exclusively to the Commissioners.

These are some of the mistakes which should be corrected but they are not corrected by the Simmons bill, which makes a partisan commission. It is claimed that two of these men are not known Democrats. They have voted once or twice even against their party, but they are certainly not Republicans.

We need an outstanding Commission of pronounced Democrats and pronounced Republicans. This is the only real way to have a bi-partisan Board. We endorse the Governor's suggestion to settle this muddle and if the senate does not accept it the bonus of defeating the bond issue will be on the Democratic party for no one will vote for it as a political measure of either one party or the other. A real bi-partisan Board of capable men, who understand something about roadbuilding, and letting contracts, if the price is too high, while it will not insure the adoption of the bond issue will at least give the people a fair chance to accept the responsibility for either its adoption or defeat.

It will relieve the Legislature and members of both parties of either credit or blame on the road question and put the issue of road building where it properly belongs, out of politics.

For those gentlemen who are afraid to submit the bond issue on a fair basis for fear it will be adopted, and seek a partisan commission for the purpose of killing the bond issue. The News would suggest that, while they are also doing incalculable harm to the roads, they are also doing incalculable harm to the Democratic party.

The Blackest Hour

Twenty thousand Americans committed suicide in 1921. This is the estimate by the Save-a-Life League, whose members work to prevent suicides.

Included in the list of those who took their own lives were 858 children and 509 war veterans.

The oldest suicide was 100 years old and the youngest 5.

Easy to explain the great increase in suicides, says Harry M. Warren, president of the Save-a-Life League.

He blames it largely on disturbed economic conditions that have caused a tidal wave of business failures, unemployment and personal suffering resulting from financial setbacks.

Also, "the growing complexity of our modern life, the feverish unrest, crimes, divorces, questionable dress, unhappy home relations, the decline of religious sentiment, and other things that have caused deranged nerves, depression and less self-control."

The empty pocketbook is a leading cause of suicides, but not the only one. Last year 76 millionaires took their own lives.

Millions of Americans—wary disillusioned—are discouraged almost to desperation and distraction.

What they need is this powerful spiritual tonic, the knowledge that is always blackest just before dawn.

Since May, 1920, Americans have gone through a terrific earthquake of prices, fortune and general economics.

Many of us are saturated with the poison, self-pity.

Yet our grandparents, in the days following the Civil War, went through exactly the same sort of hard times that we are going through now. So did their grandparents, after the war of 1812.

The only difference is that they suffered more. We of this generation do not know what real hard times are. Get some old resident to tell you about the panic of 1873—"when a dollar would buy nearly anything, but almost no one had the dollar."

Life is more or less a gamble, and endless chain of alternate losses and winnings. Many of us, in facing present problems, need some of the gambler's pluck nerve and fatalism.

Anyone who has ever known a professional gambler has heard him say: "I've been a long time in a run of hard luck. Things couldn't get much worse, so they're due for a change."

The gambler has truth behind him.

A run of luck is always worse just before it changes.

The fever victim's temperature reaches its highest point, the crisis, just before there is a turn for the better.

Cheer up, folks. The night is black. But the clock is striking 4. Down—the sunrise of a bright new day—is close at hand.

Hold the fort just a little longer. Relief is near.

Big Savings For The Thrifty Housewife

Few homes indeed do not feel the need of economy. The necessity of making every penny count touches the purse of every housewife. It is doubtful if there is a single article employed as a food or in the preparation of food that demands more buying wisdom than Baking Powder. Upon its quality depends the success and economy of the bakings themselves.

Calumet Baking Powder enables the housewife to make three worthwhile savings. She saves when she buys it—it is moderate in price. She saves when she uses it—she uses only half as much as required of most other powders. She saves materials it is used with—it never permits bake-day failure. Any woman can use Calumet with absolute certainty of results—delicious, tasty bakings that are pure and wholesome.

True home economy of time, material and effort is completely handled in Reliable Recipes, the 76-page Cook Book and Household Hints. A copy is yours Free—for asking. Address Home Economics Dept. Calumet Baking

"For the following reasons I am unable to send you the check asked for: I have been held up, held down, sandbagged, walked on, sat on, flattened out and squeezed. First by the United States Government for Federal war tax, excess profits tax, Liberty Loan bonds, Thrift Stamps, capital stock tax, merchant's license, an auto tax, and by every society and organization that the inventive mind of man can invent to extract what I may or may not possess."

"I have been solicited by the Society of John the Baptist, the G. A. R., the Women's Relief, the Navy League, the Red Cross, the Purple Cross, the Children's Home, the Dorcas Society, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. H., the Boy Scouts, the Jewish Relief, and every hospital in town. Then on top of it all came the Associated Charities and the Salvation Army.

And now just because I will not sell all I have and go out and beg, borrow or steal money to give away, I have been cussed, discussed, boycotted, talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, robbed and nearly ruined, and the only reason I am clinging to life is to see what in the hell is coming next."—George W. Collins.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR JUDGE COURT OF APPEALS.

We are authorized to announce Judge D. A. McCandless a candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, Third District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce that H. L. James, of Elizabethtown, Hardin county, is a Democratic candidate for Appellate Judge in this the Third District, subject to the August primary.

Under the law passed by the last Legislature, each county in the State is entitled to a six weeks Summer School. The holding of institutes was abolished. The Legislature appropriated $50,000 for this purpose and the schools are for rural teachers.

Sarah Bernhardt has got young some more. She has returned to the stage at the age of seventy.

Mr. Sam Lewis, who is Chairman of the Republican Committee of Adair county won out before the State Central Committee, which met in Louisville last Wednesday. The situation was this: In the last county campaign it was reported that Mr. Lewis voted against two of the Republican candidates for office, who were defeated. To the defeated candidates and some of their supporters this was an offense, and the County Committee was called together and Mr. Lewis was unseated. Mr. Lewis appealed to the State Central Committee and at the meeting of said committee on the day and date mentioned the case was tried and Mr. Lewis was sustained, and will remain the Chairman of the County Committee.

Mr. Ben L. Waddle one of the most prominent lawyers of Somerset, died very suddenly one day last week. He had been busily engaged in court all day, stricken in the night, and died next morning. He was a deacon in the Presbyterian Church, and his death cast a gloom over all Somerset.

The difference between living in the city and out in the country these dry times is this: When fellows in Louisville want to wet their whistles with fine liquors and wines they locate where the goods are stored get a truck and steal enough to do for several months. In this part of the country only the meanest of moonshine can be secured, and to drink it you run the risk of losing your life.

The two million business building of the Belknap Hardware Company will start in Louisville May 1st.

The bandits who robbed J. H. Caperton, near Louisville, of $10,000 worth of whisky, bonded in the sum of $130,000. There were seven men.

Solemn services are going on in Louisville to-day. Mr. Henry Watterson is being laid in his tomb at Cave Hill, and all Louisville is in mourning.

It is said that the St. Marys College, founded in 1821, will be removed to Louisville. It is a Catholic institution and the Louisville location is near Cherokee Park, not far from the Sacred Heart Academy.

The amount of whiskey in Kentucky, under the supervision of the government, is 24,000,000 gallons. If the bandits keep up their industry they will have it all stolen and consumed in a year or two.

With a reward upon the head of every prohibition violator, even the bootleggers are turning sleuths and informing on their fellow-tradesmen, says an article in a Louisville newspaper. Since the new State law, went into effect recently, offering a reward of $50 for the arrest and conviction of every violator of the prohibition office has been swamped with offers to "turn up" bootleggers. Citizens who have suddenly become ardent prohibitionists and bootleggers who have a grudge to settle or who have found competition too keen and desire to compensate themselves to the extent of $50 while eliminating some of their competitors through the office.

One of those gay spirits that never fails to see silver lining to the darkest clouds assures us that the coal strike is certain to have one important result; if it lasts long enough it will result in the erection in all the large centers of satisfactory quarters for storing coal. There is not the slightest doubt but that is needed and needed badly. We have sought to handle the coal distribution problem in a most careless fashion. For weeks at a time the mines have stood idle because there was no immediate demand for coal, although everyone knew that the demand was coming. Then production was begun feverishly, but usually too late to prevent the prices from soaring. What is urgently needed is a great system of storing coal. If this is secured coal can be mined all through the year, and stored during slack seasons for the time when the demand is always brisk.—Evening Post.

NEW KENTUCKY LAWS.

Emblems will be missing from the ballot in municipal elections in the future. The Legislature passed a law providing for their removal and setting up a "group ballot," with frequent change in the order of printing. The law was aimed at the illiterate voter.

The anti-trust law of the State which was in conflict in some particulars with the Bingham co-operative act, was repealed.

A new law was enacted regulating the running at large of stock and providing for the submission of the question to the people.

The Legislature passed a law regulating and defining the business of dry cleaning and dyeing and provided for the inspection of the establishments by the State Fire Marshal.

The Nelson bathing suit law prohibits any person appearing upon any street or road when clothed only in an ordinary bathing suit.

The prohibition law passed by the Legislature is the most stringent the State has ever known. A reward of $50 for information leading to the conviction of violators of the law is provided for in the act. Fines of from $100 to $300 for the first violation of the provisions of the act and jail sentences of from thirty to sixty days are provided. A second offense is made a felony, punishable by confinement in the penitentiary from one to three years.

Robbery and burglary, or the possession of tools with the intention of committing robbery or burglary, is made a felony, punishable in the penitentiary from five to twenty-five years. A similar sentence is imposed upon anyone who assaults any person with intent to commit robbery.

from 16 to 18 years, and a violation of its provisions is made a felony with a penitentiary sentence of five years to life. The desertion of a pregnant wife, who is left in destitute circumstances, is made a felony, punishable in the penitentiary from one to five years.

A girl at Bristol, Tenn., who had the influenza with a most remarkable temperature of 114, has recovered.

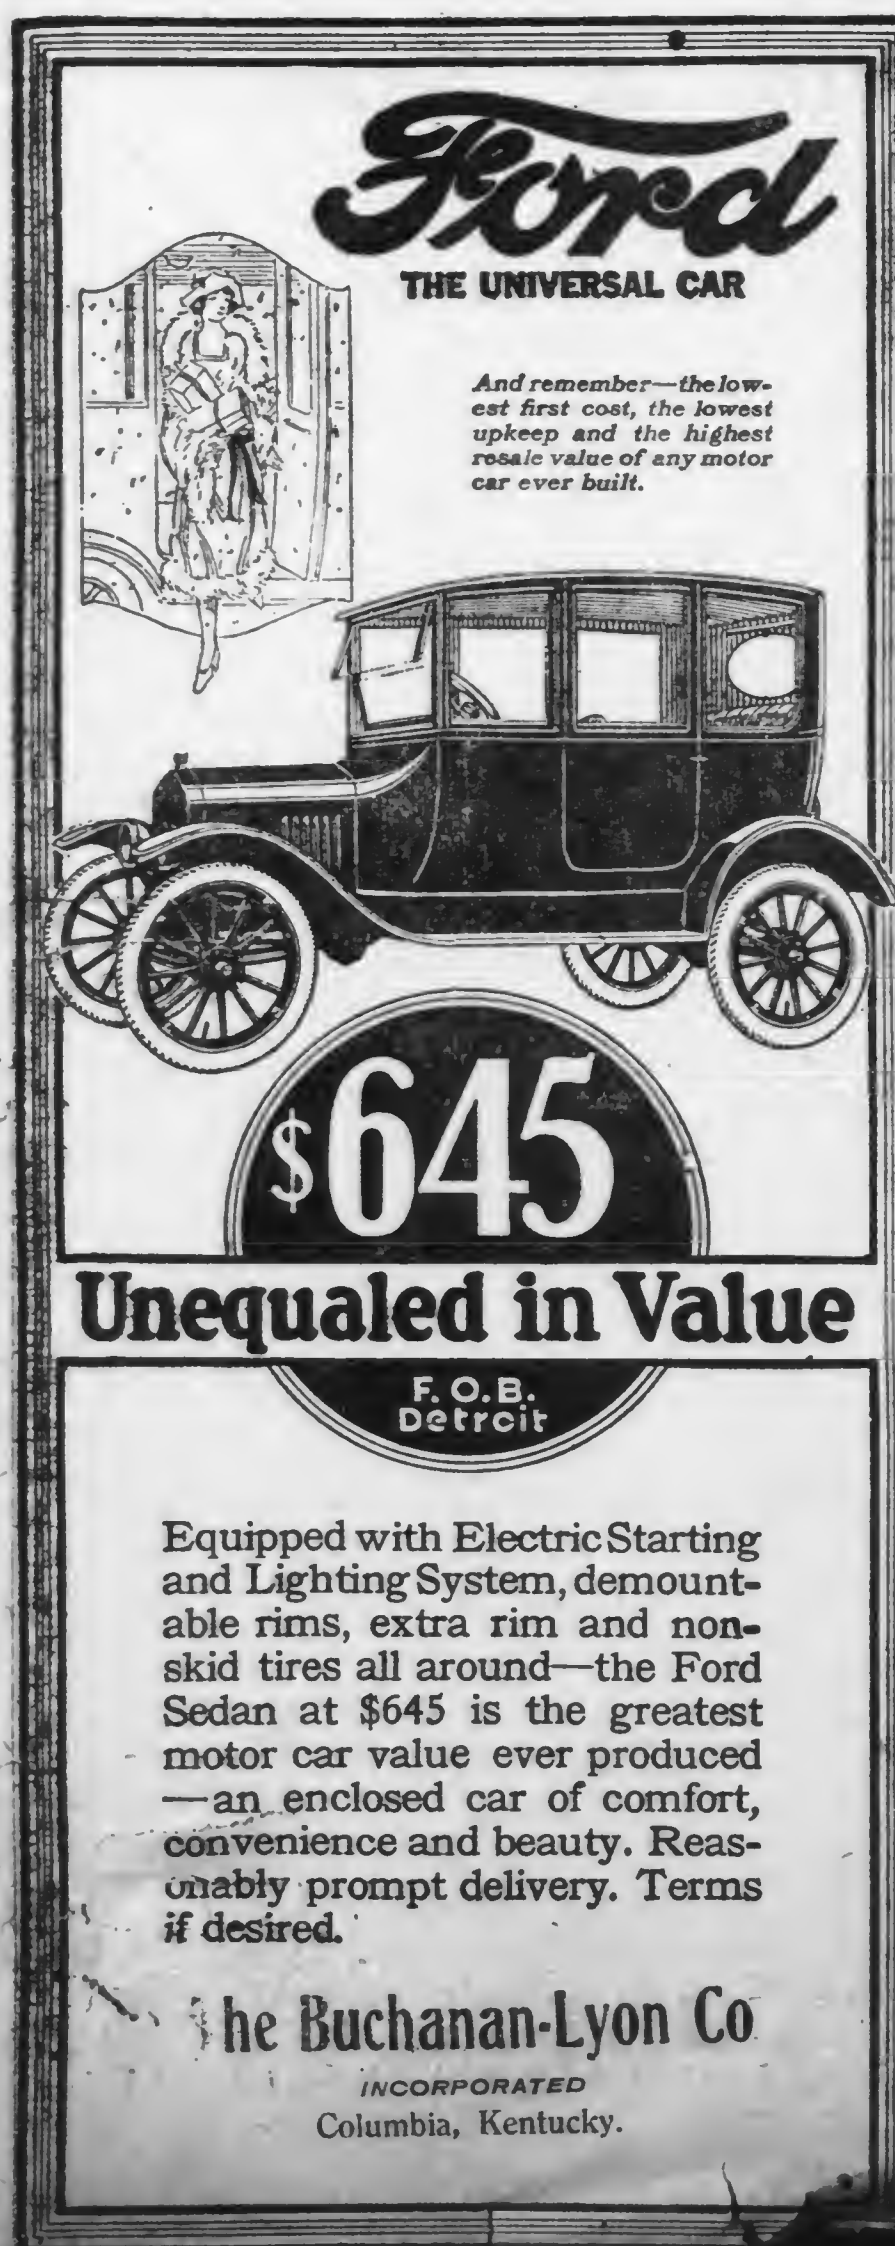

It is reported that the Kentucky Standard Oil Company will next month declare a special dividend of $2,000,000.

They are fine people and the residents of this place are glad they have come to make Columbia their permanent home. Miss Nina is already acquainted.

Do You Remember?

When all the goods sold at Columbia were hauled through from Louisville, with four horse teams? They were brought via Greensburg, and the signs of the old road, entering Columbia, can be plainly seen running around the property of Mr. J. N. Coffey. The wagoners had regular places to stop when night came. The charge for hauling from this place, we are told, was $1.25 per hundred. There were many thieves along the route, and frequently goods that were billed came up missing.

When there were Saturday afternoon meetings about Columbia and strong men, from various sections of the county, would meet and fight fist and skull for a prize? The contestants would shake hands, enter the ring, and without gloves, fight until one was whipped. It is said that blood would flow, but when the fight was over, they parted in peace.

That a short time before the civil war a man named Morrison came to Columbia and entered the hotel business, in the old building that stood where the Jeffries Hotel building now stands. It was his custom to close the hotel as soon as supper was over and retire to his bed chamber. One evening, not later than 8 o'clock two men rode up to the hotel, hitched their horses and tried to gain entrance by knocking at the front door. It was twenty minutes before Mr. Morrison let the travelers know that he was on to his job. He raised a window and hallooed, "Whose there?" "Two gentlemen who want to spend the night with you, and also have our horses fed." "You are too late," said Mr. Morrison, "I do not open after dark," closed his window and returned to his bed. All the men could do was to cuss and ride on.

How many men are there about Columbia now who remember Capt. Billy Grant, who was the first to ville and was a splendid auctioneer and upon every court day he was in Columbia, selling stock for various persons. He had a very keen voice and could be heard all over the square.

When the Knownothing party was in existence? Dr. Nathan Galtner, of this place, was a very ardent Democrat and Mr. W. E. Baker, a very young man, was a Knownothing. There was a proposition up advocated by the Knownothings, called the "Goose Question." A hot race was on for the State Senate and the Knownothing was elected. The morning after the election Dr. Galtner left his home for the square, and he was met by Mr. Baker, who said: "Well, doctor, what do you think of the Goose question, now?" "God d—n, the feathered tribe," said the doctor, and passed on.

That the first large saw and flouring mill erected in Adair county was built by Ben S. Coffey, and it was located where the old Wilson Mill stood. It was burned at the beginning of the civil war.

The time when Tom Griffith, then a small boy, fell into the fobay at the Fesse mill. Some hands fished him out, and from that day until Tom left Columbia, he was addressed as "Major Fobay."

Cream Separator

Will You Give Us the Chance

WE are always glad to talk business with the man or woman with a Missouri viewpoint—"Show Me."

If you own dairy cattle what we can "Show You" in the way of a cream separator is going to intensely interest you.

The Primrose Cream Separator is the stingiest proposition on earth with cream—never wastes a drop. Equipped with two cream outlets instead of one, the cream is never crowded in flowing out. This prevents the breaking of the fat globules—result, smoother butter.

The Primrose separator skims extremely close. The cream is always of uniform grade—is sweet, clean and always in first-class condition. And the warm skim milk is invaluable for calves and pigs. Built strong and simple, with frame open and sanitary, and supply can large and low. The Primrose is an ideal machine for the dairy farmer seeking maximum results.

There are so many exclusive good features connected with the Primrose separator that we know we can "Show You" where you will profit much by its use. Let us demonstrate its many fine points to you—if it is not convenient for you to call, phone us and we will bring a machine out with us to your home.

LAMPTON'S HOUSE PAINT BEST BY TEST

Do You Want Your Paint To Last?

We are pleased to announce that we are prepared for spring and have on hand a complete assortment of Lampton's house paints. Made by the old established paint firm of Lampton, Crane & Ramey Co., Incorporated, Louisville, Ky., these products are backed by an iron clad guarantee and a reputation for the making of dependable paints that was established a quarter of a century ago.

As you know, some people only know paint by its name but we know that many so called paints will not stand the test of a scorching sun and the trying weather changes of this climate, which in fact, are hard on even the very best paint.

You have seen houses that were painted in the Spring that looked fine when the paint was fresh but before the summer was over looked as though they had not been painted for several years.

That was because a cheap paint was used—not a pure paint made of pure white lead, zinc and linseed oil fully ground and scientifically mixed as are Lampton's famous paints.

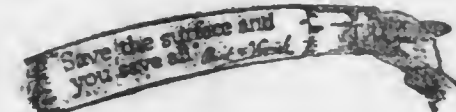

When you paint with Lampton paints no matter what color you use—you know that it is going to last—you know that it is going to wear longer, look better and be more economical in every way.

Come in and let us tell you more about this absolutely pure paint and let us show you the guarantee that stands behind it. Come and get a free Lampton's color chart. See us for anything else you want in the paint line—varnishes, finishes, brushes etc. Glad to see you.

Big Audience at Columbia High School Gymnasium Glen Ellison and Alta Hill in Edison Tone Test

In a test of direct comparison, made Wednesday at the C. H. S. Gymnasium, before a large audience, the New Edison scored a complete and convincing triumph.

Glen Ellison, the famous baritone, sang in direct comparison with the RE-CREATION of his voice by the New Edison. To every ear, there was no difference between his living voice and his RE-CREATED voice.

This is the most drastic phonograph test known. No other phonograph has ever sustained it. No other phonograph has ever attempted it.

The New Edison's marvelous performance of yesterday vindicates everything that has been said or claimed for its perfect realism.

Mr. Ellison stood on the stage next to a shapely Chippendale cabinet. He began to sing. His golden notes soared over the auditorium, bringing all under its magic spell.

Halfway through his song, he suddenly stopped singing. The New Edison, at his side, took up his song,—and continued it alone.

Singer and phonograph thus alternated, through the song.

The only way the audience could be sure which was singing, was by watching Mr. Ellison's lips,—so exactly like the living voice was the RE-CREATED voice.

Alta Hill made the same test of comparison with the RE-CREATIONS of her piano selections. Again the same result—there was no difference between the RE-CREATED performance and the living performance.

Proof was piled upon proof! Evidence was massed on evidence! The end of the concert found the audience absolutely and completely convinced, though its own personal experience, that there is no difference between an artist's living performance and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison,—that listening to the New Edison is, in literal truth, the same as listening to the living artists.

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

Only one question can still bother your mind. This question we now answer.

The instrument used in Wednesday's tests was not a special model. It was an Official Laboratory Model, taken from regular stock. Every Official Laboratory Model in our stock is guaranteed to sustain the same test of direct comparison with living artists.

You can have an Official Laboratory Model in your home. You can own an instrument which will do everything done Wednesday in the test. Come in. Hear the wonderful Official Laboratory Model for yourself. Learn about our Budget Plan, which puts our Official Laboratory Model into your home for no more than you would "pay down" for a talking machine.

For Torpid Liver

"Black-Draught is, in my opinion, the best liver medicine on the market," states Mrs. R. H. White, of Keota, Okla. She continues: "I had a pain in my chest after eating—tight, uncomfortable feeling—and this was very disagreeable and brought on headache. I was constipated and knew it was indigestion and inactive liver. I began the use of Black-Draught, night and morning, and it sure is splendid and certainly gives relief."

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

For over seventy years this purely vegetable preparation has been found beneficial by thousands of persons suffering from effects of a torpid, or slow-acting liver. Indigestion, biliousness, colic, coated tongue, dizziness, constipation, bitter taste, sleeplessness, lack of energy, pain in back, puffiness under the eyes—any or all of these symptoms often indicate that there is something the matter with your liver. You can't be too careful about the medicine you take. Be sure that the name, "Thedford's Black-Draught," is on the package. At all druggists.

LESSON FOR APRIL 9

THE LORD PRESERVES JOASH

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 11:1-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord preserveth all them that love Him.—Psalm 145:20.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—II Kings 11:1-20; II Chron. 23:1-24; Matt. 2:13-23.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God Takes Care of a Boy.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How a Boy Became King.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Boy Saved for a Great Career.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Secret of Personal and National Safety.

Joash, viewed in the light of his ancestors, was a poor prospect for a king. His grandmother was the wicked Athaliah and his great grandparents were Ahab and Jezebel. There was enough bad blood in his veins to assure his doom. Despite this fact, he brought about some noble reforms and turned the people back to God.

I. Athaliah Usurps the Throne (vv. 1-3).

1. Her attempt to destroy the seed royal (vv. 1). In order to remove any rival claimant to the throne she tried to kill all the royal male children.

2. Joash preserved by Jehosheba (vv. 2, 3). Though Athaliah was keen-eyed she was checkmated by another woman. Her fatal omission was not to get rid of the women too. This woman, the wife of the priest, stole away the child and hid him in the bedchamber for six years. God had promised that through the Davidic line the Messiah should come. In order that this line be unbroken Joash must be preserved. No purpose of God can fail.

II. Joash Crowned King (vv. 4-12).
1. Jehoiaada's preparations (vv. 4-11). The high priest and his wife were intelligent and strong characters. As the high priest, Jehoiaada felt that it was his duty to thwart the heathen project of Athaliah. Doubtless his co-operation with his wife made possible the saving of Joash.

(1) Secured the aid of the military leaders (v. 4). He knew somehow that these men were not loyal to Athaliah. (2) Bound them under solemn oath (v. 4). He took an oath of them in the house of the Lord. Honest men will stand by their word. (3) Excited their spirit of patriotism (v. 4). He gave them a sight of the king's son. This, no doubt, was a great surprise. Now having seen the heir to the throne they would risk everything, even their lives, in order to set him on the throne. (4) Co-ordinates all matters (vv. 5-11). The soldiers were divided into companies and arms were distributed to them. Each group was assigned to specific duties.

2. The coronation (v. 12). (1) The king's son brought forth. This was a great day in Jerusalem. After six years of usurpation, the people all the while supposing that all the heirs to the throne were dead, now to gaze upon the king's son would be a notable event. (2) Put the crown upon him. This was the formal induction into office. (3) Gave him the testimony. This was a copy of the law, showing that the king was to rule according to the law of God. The act of putting the law upon his head showed that the king himself would be under the control of the law. (4) Made him king. This shows that he was made king by the choice of the people. (5) Anointed him. They poured oil upon his head. This was the usual method of consecrating prophets, priests and kings. (6) Clapped their hands. This was a token of joy.

III. Athaliah Slain (vv. 13-17).
1. The noise of the coronation of Joash brought Athaliah to the temple (v. 15). Up to this time she thought her place on the throne was secure and that her heathen religion had free course.

2. Her dismay (v. 14). Upon her arrival at the temple she saw the king wearing the crown and surrounded by the guards, so that she could do nothing. In her despair she exclaimed: "Treason, treason!" How prone wicked men and women are to cry out as though they had been wronged when their wicked plots and conspiracies are exposed and thwarted!

3. Athaliah executed (vv. 15, 16). The orders were that she should not be killed in the temple. They led her out by the way of the horses' entrance to the king's palace and slew her. What a tragic end for the sinner! Sin can only prosper for a time.

IV. Worship of the True God (vv. 17, 18).
Joash was seven years old when he was made king. The high priest made a covenant between the Lord, the king and the people that they would be the Lord's people. In carrying out this covenant they broke down the temple of Baal and slew the priest of Baal.

Every Voter Must Register

The Smith-Minor bill, known as the State-wide Registration Bill, passed over the Governor's veto by the late General Assembly, requires registration of voters in every precinct in Kentucky.

The registration bill will become effective June 13, ninety days after the adjournment of the Legislature, when all acts passed by the recent Legislature, not carrying emergency clauses, become laws.

The new Registration law, which applies to the entire State, completely revolutionizes the system of enrolling the voters. Heretofore this has been confined to cities and towns of the first four classes. Under the new arrangement every voter in the State must be registered before he or she is qualified.

The law further provides that the Board of Election Commissioners of each county, not later than June 20, 1922, and annually thereafter, shall appoint for each precinct in the county two judges, one sheriff and clerk to conduct the registration. The registration officers are to be chosen from lists of eight names for each precinct furnished by the governing authorities of the Democratic and Republican parties, these lists to be submitted on or before June 15. Stipulation is made that the registration officers must be divided equally between the two parties.

Registration officers are prohibited from holding any elective or appointive office during their term or for a year following.

Voters desiring to register must sign the registration book, the signature to be attested by the registration Clerk and Sheriff. In addition to the name, age and sex of each registrant the description shall include his or her occupation, color or race, weight and height or other means of identification and party affiliation of the registrant. In the event that the registrant states upon oath that he or she cannot write his or her name the clerk shall sign the registration book.

Any judge of a primary or general election may require a voter to sign his or her name for comparison with the signature on the registration book.

The law fixes the second Monday in July each year for the registration of voters in every precinct in the State, but it is provided that this year the registration shall be held on July 10 and 11. The hours of registration are fixed from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. In addition another registration day is provided to be held in each precinct sixty days prior to the general election. Supplemental registration before the County Clerk is done away with.

REGISTER ONCE IN PRECINCT.

The law contemplates only one registration in a lifetime for the voter who remains in the same precinct. Provision is made that whenever a voter removes to another precinct in the same county, he shall apply to the County Clerk for a transfer of his registration to the proper precinct, which must be done sixty days prior to a general election. Voters removing from one county to another are required to obtain a certificate of registration from County Clerk of the county in which they are registered and present same to registration officers of the precinct in the county to which they have removed at the next regular registration day in the following July.

Any registered voter upon application to the County Clerk may change his or her party affiliation on the registration books not less than sixty days before any primary or general election.

COURT PURGATION ELIMINATED.

Upon the demand of the governing authority of either party purging of the registration in the cited precincts is provided for by the appointment of two officers whose duty it shall be to purge the polls. Demands for purgation shall not be made after September 15. Challenged voters shall be cited to appear before the two purgation officers sitting in the precinct on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in October. If the two purgation officers agree that the registrant has been illegally enrolled the name shall be stricken from the registration book. In the event that the two officers disagree as to the legality of any registration they are required to reduce the facts to writing and certify same to the Circuit Clerk of the county who shall assign each case for hearing by the Circuit Judge who shall immediately hear the case de novo. This does away with the old-time purgation proceedings in the County Court. Appeal to the Circuit Court is provided for.

False registration is declared a misdemeanor and is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail from one month to a year. Registration officers guilty of altering any registration book or falsely registering any person are subject to imprisonment in the penitentiary from one to five years. Any person breaking up or interfering with the registration in an unlawful manner shall upon conviction be subject to a fine of from $100 to $500 or confinement in the county jail from six to twelve months or both.

Ringed Endorsement of Candidacy of Judge McCandless

The following petition signed by members of the bar and county officials of the Tenth Judicial District endorsing Judge McCandless is self-explanatory:

The undersigned county officials and members of the bar of the Tenth Judicial District, unreservedly endorse the Candidacy of Hon. D. A. McCandless for Judge of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky.

By reason of constant business association with Judge McCandless for many years, we are intimately acquainted with his qualifications and fitness for this high judicial position. His long and varied experience at the bar and on the bench; his untiring industry, hard work and close application to the duties of the office; his natural judicial temperament, absolute fairness, quickness of decision and sincerity of purpose; his unquestionable integrity and unblemished character most eminently qualify and very splendidly equip him for the responsible duties of this high office. With absolute confidence we believe his election to the Appellate Bench will help to safeguard and guarantee the rights of the people on all questions coming before the highest judicial tribunal of the State for final determination.

While his promotion would necessitate the appointment of a Circuit Judge for a few months until the voters elect his successor at the following November election, yet we are perfectly satisfied and willing to undergo this smaller inconvenience for the sake of the greater public good and welfare of the people of not only our own judicial district, but of the entire State of Kentucky.
